

The visualization shows a 4x16 grid of cells. The top row is white, the second row is orange, the third row is light orange, and the bottom row is white. The orange cells represent the state of the system at each time step and location. The pattern of orange cells evolves over time, showing a wave-like behavior that moves from left to right across the spatial locations.

